The students are the future of our country, their future relies on your encouragement and support. This is my first effort to stimulate them being part of "Mission Self Reliant India" Through Reuse, Recycle and Reduce the waste for a better future. So, on behalf of HoD, Geography dept. Colleagues are cordially invited to have a glance at the innovative work of our geography students who made those beautiful craft out of waste materials under the course content "Recycling from waste product-The sustainable development". your presence will encourage and boost my students innovative skills not only for today but tomorrow and forever. Thanks.

The Arunachal Pradesh Literary Society (APLS), in collaboration with the internal quality assurance cell (IQAC) of JN College (JNC) here in East Siang district, conducted a workshop on 'creative writing and publishing books', in the college's upper campus on Saturday. "The main motto of the workshop was to bring forth the specific objectives of writing, with all the processes and technicalities of publishing through different publication houses," the APLS informed in a release.

The programme was chaired by Padma Shri awardee and renowned author Mamang Dai, and eminent social activist and
